Thank you

On 31 January 2020, the first Coronavirus cases in the UK were recorded in York. Since those cases were declared, the pandemic has impacted every aspect of life, at a great cost.

Yet, the way York responded in the early days of the crisis laid the foundation for the city's continued response.

Communities came together, neighbours helped each other and businesses adapted to keep safe.

At time of printing, the case rates in the city have fallen substantially following a sharp rise. However they are still too high, and the council is reminding everyone of the importance of staying at home where possible, to protect the NHS and save lives.

We thank everyone for their huge efforts throughout the year to keep the people we love safe.

A specially big thank you to York's volunteers

Following a call for volunteers in 2020 we have been overwhelmed with the generosity of the residents of York, with an estimated 71%* of people in our city now offering some form of unpaid help.

Steve and Hattie of York Supper Collective

Exceptional challenges in 2020 included:

- Stewarding or marshalling (incl symptom-free testing and vaccination centres)
- Supporting community hubs
- Food distribution
- Doorstep natters
- Wellbeing telephone calls

We are all immensely grateful for the support of our volunteers over the past year and we thank everyone in advance for their help in the year ahead.

Back York to retain its own council

Following the recent devolution deals for South & West Yorkshire, discussions are currently taking place with the Government regarding a potential devolution deal for our city and region.

A devolution deal for York and North Yorkshire could potentially unlock significant investment in the region, including investment in York's transport infrastructure, low-carbon technologies, more affordable housing and major schemes, like York Central.

If conversations between the Councils and Government progress well, a governance review will be required to take place, including a full consultation, which will provide residents and businesses a further opportunity to comment before decisions are made at Executive and then, Full Council.

Two proposals have been submitted:

- One which merges all district & borough councils together in North Yorkshire County Council, with City of York Council and its current unitary authority footprint kept intact.
- One which proposes merging all councils, including York, into two new councils on an East West split model.

Residents Back York

Following independent research, conducted in 2020, we have seen overwhelming support from residents for keeping our unitary authority footprint the same.

By supporting York to continue as a council in its own right, the council and residents have agreed:

- To protect York's historical identity
- To continue to keep local decision making
- To protect residents from service disruption and a significant rise in council tax, with no corresponding service improvements (above any as a result of covid-19)
- To recognise the City of York's geography is distinctly different to its surrounding, mostly rural and coastal areas
- To continue to prioritise the city's recovery from the pandemic
- To continue to support a successful, sustainable city, recognised as one of the best places to live in the UK.

Vaccines being administered at the York vaccination centre

York vaccination centre

York residents have been receiving their vaccination at the Askham Bar site, which has now been extended to include the NHS vaccination centre for people within a 45-minute drive.

The centre is supported by local volunteers, working alongside healthcare workers and operational staff. It is managed by Nimbuscare, a group of 11 local GP Practices.

People will be invited to book in for their vaccination by the NHS or by their local GP Practice. The priority groups for vaccination are determined by the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation (JCVI).

York people have an important part to play to help us deliver the vaccine effectively to those who need it most.

- Please don't contact the NHS to seek a vaccine, we will contact you
- When we do contact you, please book your appointment
- Please come at your appointment time and try not to come early
- Have your booking reference handy and wear your mask
- Continue to follow all the guidance - hand hygiene and social distancing in particular - to control the virus and save lives.

Shop local

Throughout the pandemic many of us have looked local to get those essential items, as well as a few tasty treats.

With the best Yorkshire has to offer it's not hard to see why. Now, as we look to get back to normal these businesses need our support more than ever.

Fresh food in the city centre

Head to the Shambles Market, the home of the city's largest collection of independent traders, where essential goods are still on offer, served in a socially distanced and responsible manner.

Support local and buy online

Help make your property flood resilient

A new website with information and advice to make sure that if the worse does happen your property is flood resilient has been launched, helping you reduce flood damage for a speedier recovery.

With real life case studies from people who have adapted their properties to be flood resilient, together with clear explanations about how you can do the same, the website is designed to be a user-friendly and helpful hub of practical information.

Hear from industry experts on everything from flood insurance to new building materials.

The website also signposts you to information to help you better understand your property's flood risk, and where to find the most up-to-date information on flooding information.

www.yorkshirefloodresilience.co.uk

Yorkshire Flood Resilience is one of three Flood Resilience Community Pathfinder Projects nationally that have been funded by the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra).

COVID safe winter weather

This winter, the council responded to freezing temperatures and rising river levels in a COVID-safe way. Protecting homes and businesses, flood defences were installed earlier than normal to ensure operations could continue safely.

Help us shape York's future

Here are just some of the many ways you can shape the decisions which affect you, and hear the views of others from across York.

Your direct access to decisions and leaders

All the big decisions about the city and the people who proudly live here are made by the council's Executive.

Meetings are streamed online via the Council's YouTube channel live and all the reports are published in advance. Anyone is allowed to register to speak on a decision, so your voice can be heard on a subject important to you.

You can find out what meetings and decisions are coming up, and watch all previous meetings at:

www.york.gov.uk/local-democracy

#Ask TheLeaders Facebook Q&A

In 2020 we held our first Facebook Live Q&A, giving residents the chance to ask questions directly to the key decision makers in the city.

We have now held more than 20 Q&As, covering topics including public health and COVID restrictions to business support and grants, education and emotional wellbeing. With the videos reaching over 130,000 people and hundreds of questions answered on the most important issues.

With the success of these sessions, we are hoping to continue regular sessions as a way for you to get your questions answered directly.

Have you got your census letter?

The census is a once-in-a-decade survey that gives us the most accurate estimate of all the people and households in England and Wales. It has been carried out every decade since 1801, with the exception of 1941.

Everyone will benefit from Census 2021

Understanding the needs of the nation helps everyone from councils and health authorities to central government to plan and fund public services across England and Wales. Census data informs where billions of pounds of public funding is spent, on services like transport, education and health – on road repairs, schools and dental surgeries.

Information from the census is also important in helping lots of other people and organisations do their work.

Results will be available within 12 months, although personal records will be locked away for 100 years, kept safe for future generations.

You should now be receiving letters with online codes explaining how you can complete the forms (or you can also request a paper questionnaire if you'd prefer to complete your census that way.)

If you don't get a letter in the next couple of weeks, please get in touch with the census contact centre.

Local census support centres will be open while the census is happening. Staff will offer help for people not confident online, who don't have a computer or need help completing on paper.

York community woodland starting to take roots

Work to create a new community woodland within York's boundary, west of the A1237 at Knapton, which could see 50,000 trees planted by 2023, has taken an important step forward.

This community woodland will become part of the wider White Rose Forest which will span North & West Yorkshire, feeding into the plans for a wider Northern Forest. Creating a long term and sustainable impact in health and wellbeing, as well as new green jobs.

Share Your Woodland Walk Memories

We will soon be sharing plans of what the community woodland could look like and would like to hear your thoughts and ideas for what could be included.

Your input will help us define the overall vision for the woodland.

Zero carbon homes move forward

110 new Passivhaus homes will start construction later this year at Burnholme and Duncombe Barracks.

Designed by Stirling Prize-winning architect Mikhail Riches, the two developments will focus on fostering a greater sense of community and wellbeing, building on York's pioneering housing heritage.

City of York Council is committed that a minimum of 40% of the ultra-low energy properties will be for social rent or shared ownership – twice the amount required. Revenue from the market sale homes will be used to support the total development costs.

Castle gateway update

Castle Mills

Planning approval was granted in December 2020 to build 106 new homes, including 20 new council homes. The development will also deliver a new riverside park and a pedestrian/cycle bridge over the River Foss and the sale of apartments will contribute to the wider masterplan of the Castle Gateway.

Work at Clifford's Tower

English Heritage are undertaking conservation work and improvements to the visitor experience. The project is expected to be completed in summer 2021.

York central update

A new generation of jobs, housing, leisure and cultural facilities for York have moved a step closer, as early site clearance works are now taking place on the York Central site.

The site clearance works will prepare the area for the infrastructure works to unlock the 42 hectare site, which will provide up to 2500 new homes; up to 1.2 million square feet of commercial development as well as vastly improved visitor access experience at the National Railway Museum.

The area has enterprise zone status and will provide around 6500 new jobs and a £1.2bn boost to the local economy.

The work has been approved as part of the planning approval on the site, which included a detailed assessment of the heritage value of the buildings. More than 300 mature trees will be planted during the next phases of infrastructure works, while the development also includes the largest park in the city for 100 years and areas to encourage biodiversity.

St George's Field Car Park

A new multi-storey car park and improved coach park with new landscaping and a new cycle route through to Piccadilly received planning approval in January 2021. Following further work now getting underway on a car parking strategy for the city centre, Executive will make a final decision on the proposal later this year. If it goes ahead, the proposal will replace two large surface level car parks with a modern car park that will be accessible in times of flood.

York's european links still going strong

York has had twinning relationships with Dijon in France since 1953 and Münster in Germany since 1957. Over the years, these bonds have inspired people to share their cultures, creating a new understanding and forming lasting friendships.

Now, the York–Münster Twinning Association and their new chair, Ursula Lanyers, is keen to reach out to York residents to continue to strengthen this special link.
